There is a VIRUS out on the internet that is looking for the name RAISLEY on websites.

You have that name on this page.

http://www.radaronline.com/features/2006/09/strange\_bedfellows.php

That story came from a site called corrupted-justice.net, the story was nothing but bull shit. That site is now dead. The thing was hit by twenty thousand bots infected with that VIRUS. It was then kicked off the hosting service.

I am just warning you for your own good. Several blogs have been shut down by their host when they posted that guy's name and would not remove it. Mine included. I would like to recommend you remove "Bruce Raisley" off your site as fast as you can.

When that thing finds you, not only will your site go down but every site on that machine, and ever machine behind that router. Your ISP may dump you like a sack of potatoes when they detect that distributed denial of service attack directed at your site.

The bot count is most likely over one hundred thousand by now, and they have not been able to find or identify the virus. Depending on how those bots find your site, it could be from one thousand bots on up that hit your machine. You need to remove the name or modify the page and change the name to an image.

Looks like perverted-justice has really pissed some body off.

Good luck...
