

Under Barack Obama's plan 15 million Americans will still be waiting for insurance.

Obama's health care plan is just not up to the job.

Barack Obama's health care plan just doesn't match his rhetoric. John Edwards said that if we go with the Obama plan, "as many as 15 million Americans would be without coverage." (Sioux City Journal, November 30, 2007)

That's 15 million Americans who will still live every single day praying they don't get sick or in an accident - all because Obama is too timid to lead the way for universal health care.

The same old band-aid solutions won't work when it comes to health care. But that's all Barack Obama is giving us.

15 million Americans can't afford to wait for Obama's actions to catch up to his promises.

There are 15 million reasons why Barack Obama's health care plan is not up to the job.
