

This ABC News/Washington Post poll was conducted by telephone April 7-11, 2010, among a random national sample of 1,032 adults. Results for the full sample have a 4-point error margin; click here for a detailed description of sampling error. Sampling, data collection and tabulation by Social Science Research Solutions at ICR-International Communications Research of Media, Pa.

*= less than 0.5 percent

1. Threats in the world could include terrorists using conventional weapons, or using biological, chemical or nuclear weapons, or conflicts among nations with nuclear weapons. Thinking about these and other threats, where would you put the possibility that terrorists could obtain a nuclear weapon - would you call it the single biggest threat the world faces, one of the biggest threats, a major threat but not one of the biggest ones, or less of a threat than that?

	Single biggest	One of the biggest	Major, not one of biggest	Less of threat	Not a threat (vol.)	No opin.
4/11/10	12	36	32	13	*	6

2. Representatives of 47 countries are meeting in Washington next week to discuss greater controls to try to keep terrorists from obtaining materials to produce nuclear weapons. How confident are you that this effort will result in better controls on these materials - very confident, somewhat confident, not so confident or not confident at all?

	----- Confident -----			----- Not Confident -----			No opinion
	NET	Very	Somewhat	NET	Not so	Not at all
4/11/10	40	7	33	56	27	28	4